Cryptocurrency - A Digital Future

As cryptocurrencies continue to make headlines, it is clear that we are on the precipice of entering a new age with regards to money. In fact, many countries around the world have been moving towards a cashless society for a while now.

In 2020, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) highlighted the benefits of using cryptocurrencies. Stating that crypto is: Cheaper, faster and more secure than traditional payment methods and that in the future crypto could change the ways in which we sell, buy, save, invest and pay our bills and that crypto could be the "next step in the evolution of money".

In recent months, we have seen large companies such as Tesla, PayPal and Microsoft start to accept payments in crypto and actually invest in cryptocurrencies directly.
